Rail Freight Car Shortage Squeezes City Industry

DEFICIT CALLED MOST SERIOUS IN HISTORY

Increasing Truck Shipments Tax Capacity of Highway Carriers.

A nationwide shortage of railroad freight cars has put a squeeze on Mansfield industry, officials reported today.

The squeeze here coincided with a government investigation underway in Washington.

"Tappan is receiving only 40 per cent of the needed boxcars," they reported.

"Tappan is increasing its gas range shipments by truck, but the trucking companies are getting congested to the point that they can't receive any more shipments.

Telegram Sent.

John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, said telegrams were sent to Washington on the box car situation but he added: "We didn't receive much satisfaction."

The following telegram, he said, was received from an officer of the Office of Defense Transportation: "Shortage boxcars Ohio not unlike other sections of the nation. Industrial plants in all areas have had to curtail or suspend operations on account of critical car shortage. Eastern railroads have in excess 100 per cent boxcar ownership on line while western carriers have only 90 per cent. Efforts are being made to equalize distribution of cars and protect all phases of the national economy."

J. F. Baesel, newly-appointed freight and ticket agent in Mansfield for the Baltimore and Ohio, termed the shortage "very serious."

J. W. Gilkinson, freight and passenger agent for the Erie railroad, said, "We're short of boxcars just as all railroads are." Gilkinson added that it was the worst shortage since he has been with the railroad, which is "a good many years."

Mansfield's firms, he said, have aided in alleviating the situation by unloading boxcars as soon as possible in order to permit the empty freights to be loaded with new shipments.

Pennsylvania railroad officials here refused comment.

Tire Firm Affected.

A spokesman for the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company said the shortage was being felt seriously.

"The situation," he added, "is a serious one but so far it has not resulted in production curtailments. The company is utilizing all its trucking facilities in order to maintain shipment of its products."

"So far as the Ohio Brass com-

3 DIE, 90 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

FRESNO, Calif.—(AP)—A Southern Pacific passenger train smashed through a tank truck and trailer late yesterday with an explosion heard six miles away, showering ten railroad cars with flaming gasoline and killing at least three persons.

Ninety passengers were injured, nearly 30 remaining in serious condition today.

The train was the streamlined San Joaquin daylight enroute from Los Angeles to Oakland. It was turned into a blazing wreck in a matter of seconds, its gayly-decorated orange cars jammed with frantic passengers smashing windows and fighting crazily to escape.

Fire Creates Panic.

Ten of the streamliner's 14 cars burned. None of them left the tracks but the sudden envelopment of the train in blazing gasoline and deadly fumes created a near-panic.

The dead identified by the railroad as Mrs. Sara E. Badgley of Densmuir, Calif.; George Schneckenberger of Bakersfield, the engineer, and Ernest M. Comer, Bakersfield, fireman.

Philip Lee Mayer, 21, of Fresno, the truck driver, escaped injury.

Some passengers were injured when they smashed windows and jumped from the cars through flames that leaped eight to ten feet high. Burning grass along the right of way added to the fire hazard.

B. W. Mitchell, Southern Pacific division superintendent at Fresno, was informed that nine cars burned out completely and one was scorched.

Mitchell believed at least 20, and possibly 30 of the injured were seriously burned.

Uninjured passengers were brought to Fresno by bus. Those bound for Oakland and San Francisco were put on a special train, and those en route to Sacramento continued there by bus.

CITY TOLD TO CUT GAS USE

Mansfield Club Owners Charge $25,500 Swindle

Two Mansfield night club operators today charged they were swindled out of $25,500 in connection with a deal in New York to purchase 300 cases of Scotch whisy, the Associated Press reported.

John Hergatt and John G. Miller, who are associated in the operation of the Ringside Night club, 48 North Diamond street, were quoted by New York police as identifying two New York men who accepted the cash last June 20, but who failed to deliver the whisky.

Confer In New York.

Both Hergatt and Miller were conferring with New York authorities today, the AP said. Their families here said they knew nothing about the transaction.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Caputo said the two Mansfielders identified James Scardino, 32, and Alfred Raimondi, 43, both of New York, as two of the three men with whom the deal was arranged last June. They were arrested last night.

Police said a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Ralph Genovese, 50, of Portland, Me., on the same charge.

In a special dispatch to the News-Journal, the Associated Press reported that detectives who had been trailing Scardino and Raimondi for several days arrested them in a Manhattan barber shop.

Hergatt and Miller told police they had come to New York after Joseph Costello, a Manhattan bartender and friend of the two men, had been informed early last June by Scardino and Genovese that they had 300 cases of Scotch whisky to sell. Costello, who was not implicated by police in the alleged larceny, informed Mansfielders.

Police said Hergatt and Miller were met by Scardino, who told them he would arrange the deal, and Scardino, pretending to phone a liquor warehouse, called Raimondi at a hotel instead.

The parties to the deal went to a bar and grill on the afternoon of June 20, police said, and Raimondi entered the place later, and with Scardino agreed to sell the whisky for $85 a case.

Took Money In Sack.

Then, according to the complaint, the two accused men left the bar with $25,500 in cash in a paper sack, promising to return with bills of sale and to deliver the liquor.

Scardino and Raimondi failed to return, police said, and instead they met Genovese and split the proceeds, with Raimondi receiving $3,300 and the other two $11,100 each.

Hergatt also operates the Sunset club, near Mt. Vernon, and Miller is operator of the "Gyp" Miller Night club, 192 Orange street.

According to Ohio law, it is permissible for a retail liquor dealer to purchase liquor outside the state providing a permit has been obtained from the Ohio State Board of Liquor Control.

12 CANDIDATES FILE PETITIONS

Kalbfleisch to Seek Election as Solicitor; Filing Deadline Near.

Mansfield Republicans today filled another vacancy in their primary slate with the announcement that Atty. C. J. Kalbfleisch would file for city solicitor.

Candidates' petitions must be filed with the county election board by 6:30 p. m., today to qualify for the May primaries.

The announcement by Gop leaders left the Republicans with two apparent slate vacancies. Party spokesmen said they could not yet announce candidates for city auditor and Fourth ward council posts.

At noon today, only 12 persons had filed petitions of candidacy with the board of elections. Twenty-eight candidates are needed to fill both Democratic and Republican slates.

Candidates who have filed include: Roy W. Vaughn, Republican incumbent for mayor; Paul L. Kelley, Democratic incumbent for city auditor; Earle K. Troll, Democratic incumbent, for city treasurer.

Fred Miller, sr., Democratic incumbent for Fifth ward councilman; William E. Bradford, Democratic incumbent for council president; David N. Swihart, Democratic incumbent for Sixth ward councilman.

Paul W. Bush, Republican, for council president; Thomas B. Wright, Republican, for First ward councilman; Mrs. Josephine Blakey, Republican, for councilman-at-large; Jay L. Stover, Democrat, for councilman - at-large, and Harry Bowman, Democrat, for Fourth ward councilman.

SENATORS STUDY AIR SAFETY PLAN

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Senators investigating air safety have under study today a $38,500,000 program to "insure safe and efficient" all-weather airline operations at major cities.

The nation's scheduled airlines submitted detailed plans for improvements at 160 airports in response to a request from Sen. Owen Brewster (R., Me.). He asked for precise cost figures after a wide range of estimates had been made in oral testimony before his commerce subcommittee on air safety.

U. S. ENTERS PORTAL CASE

Government Petitions Court To Accept It as Party In Pay Claim Suit.

BULLETIN

DETROIT — (AP) — Federal Judge Frank A. Picard, terminating the Mount Clemens Pottery company case, deferred today for 24 hours a decision on whether the United States government could become a party to the portal-to-portal suit. Judge Picard said he hoped to have an opinion in the pottery case, which led to nearly $5,000,000,000 in portal pay claims, by this weekend.

DETROIT —(UP)— The government sought today to enter the Mt. Clemens Pottery company portal pay test case as a party of the third part, so that it could appeal any decision if it felt such action necessary.

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett was scheduled to introduce a petition asking that the government be allowed to enter the case as a "proper party."

Federal District Judge Frank A. Picard, conducting a hearing into the validity of pottery workers' claims for retroactive pay, said he would entertain the motion.

Justice department officials explained that the rare action, if allowed by Picard, would give the government "equal rank" with the plaintiff and defendant in the case, including the right of appeal.

Fights Tax Loss.

Sonnett participated in the hearing last week as the government sought to ward off possible huge tax rebates to industry should companies be required to pay labor's multi-billion dollar portal pay claims. At the time he asked outright dismissal of the Mt. Clemens case.

Picard yesterday concluded the taking of testimony in the case, in which he sought to determine the exact "walking time" and 'make-ready-for-work" time put in by the pottery workers. Under a U. S. supreme court decision sanctioning portal pay, he has the additional duty of deciding if such times are large enough to be paid for.

PLAYWRIGHT DIES

WINTER PARK, Fla. —(AP)— Mrs. Maxwell A. Kilvert, 70, playwright who wrote "The Cat And The Canary" and other hit productions in the early part of the century, died last night. She was born in Ottawa, Ill.

PAY INCREASE REQUEST TO GET ACTION SOON

Council Committee Agrees to Study Petitions Before March Meeting.

City council's salary committee will consider city workers' request for $30 monthly pay increases before the March 4 council meeting, Harry J. Hollingsworth, salary chairman, said today.

Petitions signed by 170 workers requesting the raise were referred to Hollingsworth's committee last night by council.

Virtually all city employes signed the petitions. They ask that the raise be made retroactive to Jan. 1.

Represented in the pay raise request were fire, police, garbage, street, water works shop, water, sewage plant, sewer, water works pumping station and auditor's departments.

Nine Vehicles Bought.

City council last night authorized the purchase of nine new vehicles for the city. Among them were two motorcycles, a police cruiser, street department distributor, a car and two trucks for the water department, airport truck and a line truck for the electrical department.

Also authorized were contracts with General hospital for care of the indigent.

Approved was a $5,000 outside limit for medical and surgical services, and a $4.75-a-day fee for hospitalization. In addition, a $115-a-month laboratory service fee was authorized.

Fire protection contracts with Madison township, South Boulevards and the Mansfield reformatory were approved. They involve $2,000 and $250 annual fees for protecting the township and South Boulevards, respectively. A $100 stand-by fee is set for the OSR with $50 charged per fire run.

FIGHTER UNIT PLAN APPROVED

Service-Safety Director E. L. Morgan today was preparing to negotiate with the state for the basing of a National Guard fighter squadron at Mansfield airport.

The squadron will consist of 35 planes, 50 officers and 300 enlisted men. It will be a link in a nation-wide air defense plan.

Morgan last night was authorized by city council to negotiate with the state for a lease to the federal government of airport land for the squadron.

Air guard officials estimate that some 400,000 square feed of land will be needed for hangers and other buildings and for parking planes.

The Mansfield unit, to be known as the 164th fighter squadron, would train in conjunction with squadrons to be based at Cleveland and Dayton.

A radar unit of three officers and 50 men, to be based near Mansfield, would also be part of the defense team.

Planes in the Mansfield squadron would include P-47 Thunderbolt fighters, cargo and reconnaissance ships and training aircraft.

Morgan said a meeting is being planned with guard officials to determine the fees to charge the squadron for use of the airport. He said plans in use at other ports also will be studied. Money received would be used for port maintenance, he said.

Playful Terrier Turns Gas Jet, Kills Mistress

STONEHAM, Mass. — (AP)—A playful fox terrier was blamed today for the asphyxiation death of his mistress, Mrs. Mary M. Pignato, 33.

Medical Examiner Ira W. Richardson said that the dog—ironically named "Lucky" — tugged so hard on a rope attached to a gas stove that it opened two jets. It had been a custom to tie the canine to the stove.

Mrs. Pignato's husband, summoned by neighbors who smelled gas, found her dead.

TRUMAN LAUDS U. N. PROGRESS

President Warns Peace Hopes Could Yet 'Be Betrayed and Lost.'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman told congress today that the United Nations had made "great progress" in the past year but that world hopes for peace could yet "be betrayed and lost."

"The difficulties and dangers that lie before us are many and serious," Mr. Truman said in a letter transmitting to both the senate and house a report on United States activities in the world organization during 1946.

The president listed as one outstanding accomplishment of the peace agency during its first year the unanimous agreement by the 54 member nations, including Russia, on the principle of international control and inspection of atomic energy, "established by treaty and not subject to any veto in its operations."

Mr. Truman said one of the "important long range achievements of the general assembly's first session, which was held partly in London and partly in New York, was the adoption of resolutions for "codification and development of international law."

Cites Nazi Trials.

Developments toward the application of international law to individuals—as in the cases of the Nazi leaders tried at Nuernberg —as well as to states "are of profound significance," the president said, because:

"We cannot have lasting peace unless a genuine rule of world law is established and enforced."

Mr. Truman reiterated that this country's policy was to support the United Nations with all its resources as a "permanent partnership."

Highlighting some of the problems immediately ahead in addition to those of armament and atomic control, the president made these other points:

"The establishment and maintenance of lasting peace will depend in large part upon the ability of the United Nations to carry through to a successful conclusion the work it has begun toward world economic recovery and cooperation . . .

"I shall recommend to the congress prompt acceptance of the constitution of the International Refugee Organization and appropriation of our share of the expenses of its program . . .

"Preparations are now going forward for a world conference on freedom of information before the end of this year . . .

"The United States will support further steps during the coming year toward strengthening the trusteeship system."

RUSSIA CUTS FORCES

LONDON —(AP)— The Moscow radio announced today that the government had ordered demobilization of six "older age" groups in the army and navy between March and June. The number of men affected was not given.

Senate Group Prepares Bill To Hike Rents

WASHINGTON—(INS)—A senate banking subcommittee prepared today to draw up legislation providing for a flat percentage blanket rent increase and a definite date for rent decontrol.

Sen. Bricker (R., Ohio), a member of the group, meanwhile brought forward a proposal that OPA be abolished as an enforcement agency and that tenants be left to police rent ceilings by taking violations to the local courts.

The former Republican vice-presidential candidate said this move should be considered in view of "OPA inefficiency" and the agency employes' "arrogance and disrespect of human rights."

Bricker declared that landlords need "immediate relief" but added that the amount of the increase would have to be determined by weighing the evidence and studying the extent to which enforcement can be placed on a local basis.

The subcommittee, of which Sen. Buck (R., Del.) is chairman, was slated to take over from the full committee the task of holding hearings and drafting legislation on rent control revision.

Buck scheduled further hearings for tomorrow morning and said he hoped the group would be able to complete the draft of a bill in two weeks.

Favors Decontrol.

He stated he believed the intention of the subcommittee was "to increase rents a little and then get rid of the whole thing."

Buck added that he personally favored providing for "some across-the-board increase and fixing a time for ending controls."

It was expected, in view of the administration's near-imposition of a flat ten per cent ceiling hike last week that the committee would not approve a lower figure.

Bills that will be studied by the group include proposals ranging from periodical five per cent ceiling boosts to a flat fifteen per cent increase.

Board's Explanation Satisfies P-TA Group

By PHILIP GREENE

All except 27 of the Mansfield public school system's 240 teachers are receiving the $500 annual salary increase recently voted by the board of education, board members and Supt. W. L. Miller explained to a special investigating committee of the Parent-Teacher association council last night.

With the figures placed before them, most of the P-TA committee members agreed verbally that the teachers are actually receiving the wage boost, but as a committee they decided to draw up a formal written report for later presentation to the P-TA council.

The five-member P-TA committee met with the board at the board's request after a number of teachers voiced the idea that the announced $500 raise was "only on paper."

Supt. Miller and the board members brought out copies of the board's annual appropriation measure, its salary adjustment schedule and a blackboard on which the salary figures were printed in simplified form in order to convince the committee members that the salary increase is being paid.

Explains Plan.

Supt. Miller pointed out that the teachers will earn the $500 over a period of nine months—Jan. 1 to May 31 and Sept. 1 to Dec. 31 of 1947—but will not be paid the last penny of it until the summer of 1948, "at their own request."

"You must remember that we have to deal with at least four distinct years: the calendar year, on a basis of which the board receives its money, the fiscal year, from July 1 to June 30, the school year, from Sept. 1 to June 1, and the salary year, from September to September," he said.

Paul Hauserman, a member of the P-TA committee and president of the Mansfield Federation of Teachers union, agreed that the complicated method of disbursing the salary money had undoubtedly misled some teachers into believing they were being short-changed.

"Most of those who believed the $500 was only on paper thought they would get it in the calendar year. As far as the Federation and I personally are concerned, we're satisfied with the explanation," he said.

Sees It 'Clearly.'

Mrs. C. J. Kalstein, another P-TA committee member, said: "I see it very clearly now, but I didn't before."

Mrs. Paul M. Stahl, president of the P-TA council, said she understood many teachers thought the salary increase was retroactive to last September, but Supt. Miller said that salaries could not legally be made retrocative and Harold A. Bruce, vice president of the board, pointed out that money from the three-mill levy, which financed the wage boosts, was not available until after Jan. 1.

Bruce, who presided in the absence of Harold W. Arlin, president of the board, remarked:

"Action of the board is a public matter and all its records are open to the public. The board is entirely willing and anxious to keep the fine cooperation of the

BOY KILLS DAD WITH SHOTGUN

COATESVILLE, Pa.—(INS)—Fifteen-year-old Joseph Daniels, jr., was under arrest today on charges of shooting his father to death with a double-barreled shotgun after he was beaten with a strap because of his poor marks in school.

Police said the boy sat calmly on the sofa in the parlor of their suburban Coatesville home until his father, a 42-year-old steelworker returned last night. As the father stepped into the parlor, he was felled by a blast in the head.

The boy's mother, Josephine, rushed into the room at the report and saw her son with the gun still in his hand, muttering:

"I don't remember what happened."

State police reported the boy had been whipped when he came home from school in the afternoon, and when the father left the house last night, he had told his son:

"Study your lessons, and you'd better know them when I get back."

BOY ADMITS 'LONE WOLF' ROBBERIES

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Columbus police checked the story today of a 14-year-old boy who told them he had committed a series of more than 20 "lone wolf" burglaries during the past two months.

The boy, identified as Glen Smith, was picked up for questioning about a stolen gun. He then recounted a long list of thefts in which loot was several hundred dollars.

BLIND GIRL MAKES BITTER CHOICE-- GIVES UP SCHOOL TO KEEP HER DOG

By PATRICIA CLARY

LOS ANGELES —(UP)— Sixteen-year-old Patsy Ruth Fergus decided today to give up her high school friends and classes to keep her seeing-eye dog.

The pretty little blind girl said she couldn't part with her dog Lucky, even if that means giving up the social life she craved.

The city board of education said she couldn't take the pure white German shepherd to school any more. It promised instead to send a tutor to her trailer home.

IT'LL BE LONELY staying home all alone," Patsy said, "but I can't give up Lucky ever. She's the only eyes I've got.

"All I want to do now is get through my next three semesters of high school in a hurry so I can go to junior college. They let you take dogs to classes there."

Supt. Vierling Kersey assured her she could whiz through her studies as fast as she was able, and maybe her quick mind and ready memory would master the remaining courses under private instruction even faster than in class.

PATSY'S CLASSMATES at Alexander Hamilton high school petted and pampered Lucky. The dog took Patsy to movies and stayed by her side on streetcars and buses.

"She never even barked in classes," Patsy said. "I can't understand how they could think she was dangerous."

Patsy's school friends, who didn't think Lucky was dangerous either, petitioned the board of education to make an exception to its rule against dogs. The board said it could not.

TEMPERATURE DROPS TO ZERO IN MANSFIELD

Relief From Season's Most Severe Cold Wave To Be Shortlived.

Industrial Mansfield went on a minimum-consumption-of-gas basis again today. Between 150 and 200 industries curtailed use of natural gas in an effort to conserve the fuel.

The move was made necessary by the season's most severe cold wave.

Temperatures throughout the day held only a few degrees above zero. They reached that point at midnight and by noon had climbed only to 7 above.

TEMPERTURES

| Hour | Degrees |
|---|---|
| Tuesday | |
| 4 p. m. | 4 |
| 7 p. m. | 0 |
| 10 p. m. | 0 |
| 12 midnight | 0 |
| Wednesday | |
| 3 a. m. | 2 |
| 5 a. m. | 3 |
| 6 a. m. | 3 |
| 8 a. m. | 0 |
| 10 a. m. | 4 |
| 12 noon | 7 |

The cold was expected to hold through another night. The U. S. Weather Bureau promised, however, that Thursday would be "not so cold."

New Cold Wave Sighted.

But, it added, a new mass of cold air was forming in northwestern Canada and should reach the Ohio area later in the week, possibly bringing a return of zero readings.

The request for gas conservation came from the Ohio Fuel Gas company. In a statewide move to stretch the fuel supply, it asked hotels, restaurants, laundries, bakeries and other institutions to reduce gas consumption to a minimum.

Substitution of stand-by equipment for manufacture, kept layoffs in Mansfield industries to a minimum. No loss of time was reported at Empire Steel corporation, Ohio Brass company and Tappan Stove company.

Second Request of Kind.

The Ohio Fuel Gas company's "save gas" request was the second of its kind in two weeks. The earlier request was the result of a less severe cold wave but was made necessary by a break in gas carrying pipelines.

G. K. Schooler, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio Fuel Gas company said the restriction on use of gas would last as long as the frigid weather. He added that only one of the city's bakeries was affected. The others do not use gas.

He repeated his appeal to the domestic user, however, to conserve gas wherever possible and to use it sparingly.

Annealing operations at Empire Steel, city's largest consumer of natural gas, were reported closing down. J. B. Montgomery, president, added that other steel operations of melting and rolling were being carried on as usual. Montgomery said the fuel curtailment had had no effect on employment.

The state highway office reported all highways in Richland county passable, but that some roads remained spotted with ice. Eight crews were on the job today, clearing snow drifts and spreading cinders and salt on the thoroughfares.

RESCUE PARTIES SEEK LOST PLANE

NORFOLK, Va. —(INS)— Rescue planes today searched the area between Staunton, Va., and Cumberland, Md., for a missing navy DC-3 transport with four men aboard.

The navy and coast guard assigned three aircraft to the search and said two or four additional planes will take off later from the Norfolk, Va., naval air station.

The missing plane, caught in a blinding rain and snowstorm, was last reported shortly after 6 p. m. yesterday. It was en route to Norfolk from Portsmouth, N. H., after delivering a load of naval prisoners.

Senators Surprised

WASHINGTON — (UP) — You know about congress trying to save tax money by reducing the federal payroll. And how every federal bigwig tries to prove that his department is short-handed.

So it was that the senate civil service committee glumly summoned Attorney General Tom C. Clark to tell about the 25,000 people working for him. The senators expected to hear some more double-talk.

Never have they been so badly fooled. He even had the Republicans congratulating him.

"I have been in the justice department now for 10 years, kind of working my way up," Clark said. "And the thing that impresses me in the government is the fact that a fellow always likes to have as many people working under him as he can."

The senators were stunned. They'd never heard anything like this before from any cabinet member.

"In fact," Clark drawled, "when the government sets a fellow's salary, they always ask him how many people he's got working under him. It isn't like in business. In the government it seems like the more people you have working for you, the more money you make.

"So nobody ever wants to get rid of any of his staff. If he's an energetic fellow he's likely to get his working force increased and increased again. And that makes some other bureau chief down the hall unhappy and he wants more workers, too.

"So it is a natural thing, this trying to hold onto your helpers in the government. It pays. Why, I guess I've done it myself. And it is one of the causes of this crisis."

SEN. WILLIAM LANGER of N. D., asked if he had any suggestions on how the government could quit putting a premium on such payroll padding. Clark said yes, he certainly did. For a starter congress might issue a statement of policy, saying that the number of stenographers a federal brass-hat bosses has nothing whatever to do with his wages.

As of now, Clark said, he's trying to get rid of as many spare clerks as he can, but he's having his troubles keeping down expenses. Some of this is congress' fault.

For one thing the lawmakers turned the 40-hour week into law for federal workers. So what happened? The prisoners in the 27 federal penitentiaries got Saturdays and Sundays off from their work in the mills. This made 'em restless for 48 hours every week and they had to be guarded especially carefully over weekends. Only the guards were on a 40-hour week, too, and this meant hiring more guards.

One thing seems to lead to another, Clark said. Take the atomic bomb. Congress said the FBI had to investigate everybody who worked on that. So his Hawkshaws are in the midst of making 100,000 investigations on bomb-makers and contractors. Means more G-men.

Sen. Langer said he thought the government had too many lawyers. For a while, he said, the OPA alone had 3,000 of same poring over the legal books. Wouldn't it be better if all federal lawyers worked for the justice department?

"Gentlemen," said Clark, "you establish the policy. Then I try to enforce it." Touche.

Another Case Coming

THE ACQUITTAL of two of the foulest rascals in the union racket, Joe Fay and Ben Pross, in federal district court, in Newark, N. J., has aroused more than passing notice. Indeed, Tom Clark, the attorney general in Washington, said he regarded the conduct of the government's case in the Fay trial as a "—damned outrage" and ordered an investigation of the office of Edgar H. Rossbach, the U. S. attorney, who allowed a recent member of Fay's own union, the Operating Engineers, to sit on the jury.

The farce, or "—damned outrage," in the Fay case occurred nevertheless after a warning signal had been flown in these essays and after Mr. Clark's personal attention had been directed to the job in the course of a ride in his car from his office to his dentist's studio. In that conversation, Mr. Clark expressed no misgivings concerning Judge Thomas F. Meaney, who presided over both the Pross case and the "—damned outrage," but he did say he wasn't so confident of Rossbach, who had "given us a lot of trouble." The trial was in progress at the time.

MR. CLARK was deeply preoccupied with the John L. Lewis case just then. But, busy as he was, he should have moved to forestall the "—damned outrage" by sending to Newark government counsel in whom he had strong confidence. However, it was very late in the game for that because prepration for trial and investigation of the prospective jurors are not tasks of an hour or a day. Clark may have felt some embarrassment because he personally had vouched for Rossbach when his nomination was questioned, but the feelings of a cabinet officer in such a matter carry no legitimate weight with the public.

Fay was acquitted of cheating on his income tax on graft extorted from contractors on enormous government jobs. Although the treasury's evidence presented to Rossbach was strong, presentation may indeed have been such as to justify the jury's verdict and Clark's anger.

In an earlier prosecution on a charge of sluicing rationed whisky into the black market around military training camps in southern states during the war, Pross had been acquitted, even though he couldn't take the stand lest his evil record as an inveterate criminal be disclosed.

Another case is still pending in which Mr. Clark now may be moved to vigorous, efficient conduct lest another "—damned outrage" occur.

This involves the indictments of Joe Moreschi, the international president of the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' union, and eleven others. It is right before Mr. Clark's eyes in the federal district court of Washington, D. C., and the delays and other peculiarities thus far justify apprehension.

THE EXPOSE began several years ago when I discovered that a gang of local Washington union racketeers, who ran a night club as a sideline, has been arrested by the treasury for hiding a big store of liquor in a false room under a sidewalk to evade the government's tax. They claimed the booze belonged to the union and was being held for a glorious souse party to celebrate the burning of the mortgage on the union headquarters. There was liquor enough in this cashe to plaster not only the entire local membership but all the mooching free-loaders of the New Deal, the cocktail clientele, male and female, of the Mayflower, Statler and Shoreman, and the civil and military staffs of the Russian embassy.

I hit it one lick and left town on other business. The Washington Daily News took it up from there and came up with a grand jury case. Indictments followed and a tenacious assistant U. S. attorney named John W. Fihelly indicated that he was determined to put up a magnificent brawl for convictions. Larry Kelly, one of the boss unioneers, vanished and presently was reported by the FBI to have died aboard a merchant vessel in Australia. I have my doubts. This mob was racketeering on war construction for the navy just outside Washington and the rackets included not only shakedowns but gambling and allied diversions of horny-handed bachelors in frontier camps. About $500,000 was involved.

The indictments came down in March, 1944. It is now February, 1947, almost three years later. And, at this time, we find Mr. Fihelly engaged in prosecuting Japanese war criminals as assistant to Joseph B. Keenan, an old New Dealer, who happens to be counsel for the defense in the Kelly-Moreschi case in Washington.

COUNCIL TOLD CITY HAS TOO MANY SIGNALS

Shultz Argues Against More Traffic Lights; Voted Down.

By JOHN MINE

How many traffic lights make "too many?"

Veteran Councilman Charles N. Shultz says 61—the number the city has now—and he says drivers will back him up.

Councilmen disagreed with Shultz by a vote of 8 to 1. Result: the city will get its 62nd light.

Shultz's argument developed when a bill came up last night for the installation of a signal at First and Hedges street.

Shultz immediately took to the floor to declare that "Mansfield just simply has too many traffic lights now."

He also objected to the cost of operating the lights as an argument against adding another one. (City Electrician Ernest Adams estimated today that it costs the city a total of $4,500 for power to operate all 61 lights.)

Then Shultz wanted to know "just why the light is needed" at First and Hedges.

Councilman Harry J. Hollingsworth, chairman of council's traffic committee, said it was because of the high accident rate at that intersection.

"If we put up lights on that basis then," Shultz declared, "you ought to put them up at every other corner!"

Councilman Nelson Swihart then pointed out that drivers were ignoring the stop sign at the intersection and endangering lives of school children.

Swihart agreed the light was necessary; so did Councilman Russell Porch.

When a vote on the bill was taken, Shultz held doggedly to his opinion that the city has "too many lights now." There were eight "yes" votes and Shultz's resounding "no!"

BOY CONVICTED, SENT TO LIMA

Convicted in common pleas court of assault with intent to rape, Charlie Williams, 18, yesterday was committed to the Lima state hospital for mental examination.

The youth, defended by Atty. Homer Clark, was a member of a five-man gang which was indicted for the recent wave of attacks on Mansfield women.

A 28-year-old woman testified that Williams was the person who held his hand over her mouth when he and Roy Briggs, 27-year-old gang leader, attacked her in an alley off Bowman street last fall. Williams admitted being with Briggs and two others of the gang shortly before the attack but denied he accosted the woman. Briggs has already been convicted of rape and armed robbery in other attacks.

Meanwhile, in court today were Mrs. Nan Ella King, charged with cutting with intent to wound, and Anthony George Sherman accused of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Mrs. King's attorney, C. J. Kalbfleisch, pleaded her guilty to the charge and she was placed on probation for five years. Sherman's defense counsel, Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, pleaded his client guilty and he was placed on probation for three years.

Civic Music Members Asked To Mail Renewals By Feb. 20

Letters of explanation regarding the 1947-1948 campaign for the Mansfield Civic Music association were mailed today to all present members and to all persons on the waiting list for tickets last year.

Mrs. John A. Austin, campaign chairman, emphasized that present members must renew membership at once to obtain cards for the coming year. Renewals should be mailed not later than Feb. 20. The campaign will open to the public Feb. 24, if any memberships are still available, Mrs. Austin said.

Remittances should be sent to Dean Eckert, treasurer of the association, in care of the Farmers Savings and Trust company.

After old members have renewed their memberships, the 100 names on the preference waiting list of last year will be considered before any new members are accepted. New memberships are now being accepted together with remittances and recorded in the order they are received.

Should the membership quota be reached before these names on the waiting list are officially accepted, the remittances will be returned and the names placed on the waiting list for the following year.

If, for any reason, present members do not receive notification of the campaign through the mail, they are urged to call Mrs. Austin. Prices of memberships are $6 for adults and $3 for children.

Host to some 40 dealers in the Mansfield area was Colby and Earick, Inc., of Mansfield. The dealers came from 30 counties.

Basement Rooms Ready for Patients

More room for patients will be available in the basement of General hospital as soon as the nursing staff can be increased. This was brought out at a meeting of the medical staff and a special committee from the board of directors last night.

A basement room has been ready for occupancy since last fall, Dr. A. O Fonkalsrud, superintendent, told the staff and board members. All that prevents its immediate use is a lack of nurses, he said. It will accommodate about 15 beds, according to Dr. Fonkalsrud.

Last night's meeting followed a tour of the hospital by members of the special board committee Monday.

Luncheon will be served by Circle 2 of the church after which the association members will adjourn to the Armory to view a special exhibit of road machinery.

COLD WEATHER TENDS TO UP BUTTER PRICE

Cold weather tended today to up the price of butter and meat.

Mansfield food merchants explained that transportation difficulties occasioned by the cold had caused shortages and resultant price boosts.

Butter today retailed from 69 to 76 cents a pound. Merchants said stores that offered butter at 69 cents were selling supplies on hand, rather than current shipments.

Dairies quoted a retail price of 76 cents at 9:30 a. m. They described the market as firm but said it was anyone's guess what the price might be tomorrow.

Beef Prices Low.

One of the difficulties, they said, was the handicap to both production and transportation caused by intense cold and deep snow in northern dairy producing states.

Beef prices are at the lowest since OPA ceiling prices were lifted. But merchants said the weather might affect shipments and also prices.

They noted an upward trend in pork price, as much as four cents a pound today. They ascribed this to decreasing hog shipments and the fact that young porkers won't be ready until about April 1.

Eggs Hold Levels.

Boiled ham has dropped. Quoted as high as $1.25 a pound a few weeks ago, it now sells as low as 98 cents.

A choice cut of sirloin is still 65 cents per pound, but less tender cuts may be had for less.

There has been no appreciable rise in egg prices. They retail at 49 and 50 cents per dozen. But if the cold weather continues, grocers says, it's bound to have some affect on what the hens do about it and so affect prices.

Erie Builds Its Fleet of Diesels

Besides the six huge diesel locomotives already plying the Erie railroad through Mansfield, three more will soon be pulling their heavy freight loads through the city, R. E. Woodruff, president of the Erie, reported today.

The four-unit giants will be powered by 6,000-horsepower motors. The new locomotives will be part of 34 new ones ordered for delivery this year. They will haul freight trains between Marion, O., and Salamanca, N. Y. Purchase of the 34 will cost the company an estimated $7,186,000.

MAYOR COMES THROUGH—

It's not widely known, but Mayor Roy W. Vaughn is also head of Mansfield's "Inhabitants Registration Office." At least that's the way a letter from a man in Germany was addressed to him—and the mayor thinks the title's a pretty good one. He's continually getting requests from persons in other states or in Europe asking aid in finding "long lost" relatives. Today's letter came from a Josef Kotzka who lives in the U. S. zone in Germany. He wanted Vaughn to help him locate his "Uncle Lorenz Jerger." Vaughn finally located a relative of Jerger's who promised to tell Jerger of the letter from Kotzka.

HE'S IN TRAINING—

This week's zero-ish weather brings from Ned Willis a flood of reminiscences about the three years he spent in the Mackenzie river country of the arctic. Ned says one thing about the sub-zero cold up there was that it brought no cold germs with it.

He recalls, too, that after the mercury hits 40 below there is no more wind. Ned declares he did not find the cold uncomfortable even at 60 below. The secret was to wear special Australian underwear, three pairs of woolen socks and a parka which could be tied closely about the head.

As a result of his arctic experiences, Ned recently settled a long standing argument among listeners of WJR Detroit. The question posed by Bud Guest was: how do you tell a wolf from a dog? "Easy," says Ned, "the dog carries his tail higher. The wolf carries his tail low like a whipped dog."

Ned, who mined silver in the arctic, admits he did almost freeze to death once although he didn't realize it at the time. He was walking and just thought he was sleepy. Two Swedish companions cuffed him until he agreed to keep on walking. Afterwards Ned realized they had saved his life.

POLAR SHIPS READY TO GO

WITH BYRD EXPEDITION, In Antarctica — (INS) — Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen announced today that the evacuation of Little America may get underway within the next 24 hours.

Cruzen, operational commander of the fourth Byrd antarctica expedition, alerted ships of the central group to be ready to withdraw from the Bay of Whales anytime after 7 p. m. tomorrow, depending on weather conditions.

The sudden announcement reemphasized the determination of Cruzen and his boss—Adm. Richard E. Byrd—to leave Little America before the great Ross pack to the north freezes.

Only a few days ago, a tentative withdrawal date had been set for Feb. 10.

An operational force of 190 men will remain behind as three big transports and one icebreaker steam northward. The ships will stand to outside the freeze area.

The personnel will be evacuated later—probably about March 1—by the icebreakers Northwind and Burton Island.

PROHIBITIONS ON 2 STREETS ARE LIFTED

Two-Hour Limit Is Ordered Placed on Section of Wayne.

City council last night set up regulations that prohibit parking on portions of Chester, Waring and West Dickson avenues.

In addition, a two-hour limit was placed on a section of Wayne street. Parking bans on portions of East Fifth street and Lexington avenue were lifted.

The "no parking" bills effect the south side of Chester avenue between Bowman street and Johns avenue; both sides of Waring avenue between North Foster street and Junction street, and both sides of West Dickson avenue between Walnut and Mulberry streets.

Restricted to two hours is parking on Wayne street between Grace street north to the intersection of Wayne and Newman streets.

Lifted was a parking ban on the south side of East Fifth street between Wayne street and the Pennsylvania railroad.

In addition, parking is no longer prohibited on the west side of Lexington avenue 200 feet north and south of Abbeyfeale road.

Other bills pending concern the lifting of parking bans on sections of East Fourth and Wayne streets.

Bills passed last night were designed to speed the traffic flow in the downtown section and to provide parking places for certain residents and workers, councilmen said.

Mother Seeks Red and Gold Pillow Case

A week ago, Mrs. M. Krautblatt of 4816 North Avers, Chicago, asked the News-Journal to help her find a "red and gold" picture that her son, killed in the Lucas train wreck Dec. 13, had said he was bringing home to her.

Today, in a second letter, Mrs. Krautblatt says she has been informed by a soldier-friend that instead of a picture, her son "probably meant a silk pillow case."

She explained:

"The soldier said they have silk pillowcases in red and gold wrapped, in brown paper. They have Ft. Dix, N. J., on them and the Signal corps. That's the branch of service my son was in and that's why he was so anxious to bring it home to me.

"It will be the last Christmas present I'll ever get and that's why I would want the original pillowcase."

She asked the News-Journal to make an appeal for anyone who might have found such a pillow case at the scene of the wreck to returnit to her or to send it to the News-Journal for return to Mrs. Krautblatt.

GREEN NOT READY TO QUIT, HE SAYS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (UP) — AFL President William Green doesn't entertain any thought of retiring from union activities.

He was asked at the AFL executive council's winter meeting if he recalled a report circulated last fall that he might retire in favor of United Mine Workers' president John L. Lewis, Green said:

"Fantastic. Somebody's dream."

Lewis withdrew from the CIO taking his mine workers into the AFL organization.

AVC Opposes Ohio Sales Tax, Calls for Action On Housing

Questions of a state bonus for war veterans, veterans' housing, fair employment practices, and the state sales tax were debated during a three-hour session of the Mansfield chapter, American Veterans Committee, last night.

It was also revealed that Franklin D. Roosevelt jr., or Charles Bolte, national AVC chairman, would be invited to address the AVC state convention to be held in Mansfield in May.

AVC members agreed to write to Gov. Thomas J. Herbert stating that they are in favor of repeal of the Ohio sales tax.

An effort by some members to push through a vote opposing a bonus for veterans was blocked. Members instead voted to put "a question so important" before the entire membership. Efforts will be made to conduct a poll of all members, the results to be reported to the state legislature.

A letter is to go to John L. Catlett, Richland County representative to the Ohio legislature, asking him to support the Ohio Shelter Tax bill. This bill would make public housing funds, which might result from passage of the Wagner-Ellender-Taft Public Housing bill, available to Ohio. Under present law, Atty. Joseph Ellison said, the bill would not be applicable to Ohio even if it should be passed by congress.

Catlett also will receive a letter telling him that the local AVC chapter is on record in favor of the Fair Employment Practices Control bill now before the Ohio legislature. This bill would erase from all employment application forms the questions relative to race, color, and creed.

After a report by the AVC local housing committee it was decided to postpone the proposed co-operative housing project indefinitely due to unsettled building conditions. The organization had planned to build an eight-unit apartment building for veterans.

A report on the AVC view of a Veterans' homecoming as proposed by the Joint Veterans Commission of Richland County will be taken to that body of AVC representatives. The AVC is in favor of the homecoming, but disagreed on the proposed plans for carrying it out.

It was revealed that the next state council meeting of AVC will be held in Mansfield April 14.

APPLESEED AND SIMPSON BATTLE TONIGHT

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

SPORT SHIRT Bill Veeck, the dynamic showman and guiding genius of Cleveland Indian baseball fortunes, makes his first Mansfield appearance Feb. 12. . . . The 32-year old Bill will speak at a meeting of the B'nai Jacob Men's club at the temple, 50 Sturges ave. . . The top man in the Redskin wigwam is getting around surprisingly well on his artificial leg and last week threw a dance in Cleveland celebrating the addition of the limb. . . . Bill had to have his right foot and lower leg amputated last year. . . . The foot had been mangled by the recoil of an anti-aircraft gun in Guadalcanal early in 1944. . . .

BILL VEECK

He is still dickering for a centerfielder but the Indians' inner works may be the strongest in baseball. . . . There's Lou Boudreau at short and the ex-Yankee "Flash" Gordan at second. . . . Third will go to Ken Keltner or Eddie Bockman and Bill is mighty high on the abilities of Eddie Robinson, slugging southpaw initial sacker up from Baltimore. . . . Mansfield Senior high, Madison, John Simpson and Johnny Appleseed coaches will be guests of the B'nai Jacob Men's club at the meeting.

COMPARING sports scores usually proves very little but here is another for your edification. . . . Smokehouse leads the City A league with six wins and one defeat while Shelby Merchants top the Commercial B league which plays at the YMCA. . . . Shelby has won seven straight in the B loop and defeated Smokehouse, 52 to 48, in an exhibition game last week. . . . It is definite that Pittsburgh's left field wall will be moved in at least 20 feet for Hank Greenberg's benefit.

The big slugger must drool when he thinks of that 279-foot target at the Polo Grounds in New York. The Detroit fence was 340 feet from the plate while Forbes' field has 365-foot target. . . Hence the proposed fence moving.

Cold Madison Five Bows to Shelby

RAM STREAK ENDS AT NINE STRAIGHT

SHELBY—It was a toss-up last night whether the weather or the Mansfield Madison basketball team was colder.

The Rams saw their fine nine-game victory streak shattered here as the Shelby Whippets drove to a 32 to 16 triumph. The win skein had been one of the most remarkable in Class A circles as the Madison school has an enrollment of only 161 boys. Class A schools are those with more than 150 boys in the upper four grades.

Madison had defeated Shelby earlier in the campaign, 31 to 23, and appeared well on the way to duplicating the result last night Coach Jeff DeHaven's lads played cautious ball during the first two quarters and led at the intermission points, 7 to 5, and 15 to 10.

No Points for Rams.

However, Shelby came back in the second half with a pressing defense and an accurate "basket sight." The defense kept Madison's scoring threats well bottled up and the Whippets racked up 11 straight points while the Rams got none in the third chukker.

The fourth quarter found a lid on the Madison basket and nothing would go in. The Rams peppered the board but not until the final minute could they break the scoring ice. Then it was a foul shot by sub Wayne Strang that kept Madison from being shut out in the last half.

Dick Seitz, six-foot, two-inch Shelby center, garnered 10 points to lead the scorers. Dick Ernsberger led the Madison attack with six.

Eldon Pritchard, the Rams' leading scorer, was held scoreless from the court while Herbie Eldridge, No. 2 in the Madison point race, could make only five tallies.

Shelby romped over the Madison reserves in the preliminary contest, 37 to 7. Cronenwett of Shelby connected for 16 points.

Madison meets Willard on the Ram hardwood Friday night.

Graziano May Face Another Bribe Inquiry

NEW YORK — (AP) — As Rocky Graziano continued his fight for fistic life before the state athletic commission today, the National Boxing Association indicated it might conduct its own inquiry in the case because it felt the commission wasn't interested in a united effort to 'clean up boxing."

NBA President Abe Greene, asserted the New York commission should have invited an NBA representative to sit in on the Graziano case in view of Green's statement last week that boxing's two most powerful governing bodies should join forces against gambling and fixing.

"We opened the door to New York," Greene declared, "and the commission didn't see fit to join us in a common platform."

Greene's statement came as the commission began the second day of its hearing on Graziano's failure to report a $100.000 offer to throw a fight with Ruben Shank last month—one of two $100,000 bids he received to fix bouts, neither bid accepted.

Greene indicated he might summon Graziano and his mild little manager, Irving Cohen, to tell him the facts. Abe could give those facts to the NBA's executive committee, and the committee could decide the NBA's action in its far-flung territory.

All indications are that if Graziano is given a severe penalty he will appeal to the courts on the grounds the commission's ruling would deprive him of making a living.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who now have 17 players under contract for 1947, have disposed of Max West, the outfielder they hoped would put some slugging power into their garden outposts.

Signed contracts were received by the Reds yesterday from Bobby Adams, who played second last year; Jack Cassini, a .271 hitter for Oklahoma City in the Texas league in 1946, and rookie pitcher Kent Peterson, who was with the Reds briefly before joining the army in 1944.

Does Stomach Gas and Bloat Make You Feel Miserable?

If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in freeing your stomach from this nervous distress. It was this way:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food parties; else the food may ferment. Sour fod, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peeish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special appetent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps bild-up non-organic, weak, watery blod in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice plus rich red blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, pg better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your druggist today. SSS Tonic helps Build Stuff Health.

SPIKE IS PRIDEFUL

Who walks in pride so that it shows
Will soon or later stub his toes.
—Old Mother Nature.

Spike, young son of Lightfoot the Deer, was filled with pride Yes, sir, that young Deer was filled with pride. So much so that his twin sister, Daintyfoot, was disgusted with him and said so It was all because of his first antlers, two straight horny spikes on his head They started in the late spring and had grown all summer. They were not horny when they were growing, but soft and tender. They had made Spike uncomfortable and want to keep out of sight. Now he had forgotten all that, for they had become hard and sharp pointed. He was so proud of them that every other day he polished them by rubbing them up and down on the trunk of a young tree. And because of them he tried to boss his sister.

He had always tried to boss her, but through that first year she had been his equal She could butt with her head as well as he could, and often she had the better of him because she was a wee bit the quicker. Now she had need to be quick, for if he succeeded in butting her, or prodding her, with those sharp spikes on his head they hurt.

"You're too rough," she declared, and tried to keep out of his way. But she couldn't keep away from him all the time. He was boastful Oh, yes, he was boastful. And he liked to show off. Perhaps you have noticed how folks who have something their neighbors haven't like to boast and show off. That is a way of showing the foolish pride with which they are filled.

"Don't you wish you had a pair of sharp points like mine to fight with? Then you wouldn't be afraid of anybody," teased Spike.

"No, I don't," retorted Daintyfoot. "I don't want to look as silly as you look with those two straight things sticking up on top of your head. As for not being afraid, I notice you are as ready to run as I am at the first hint of danger."

"You're jealous That's what is the matter with you. I have 'em and you haven't and can't have, so you're jealous," taunted her prideful brother.

Daintyfoot tossed her head and flirted her white tail "When I am jealous it will be because of something worth being jealous about, which those two silly spikes are not. If you had a handsome crown of many points like father's I might be jealous. I said I might be, but I don't believe I would be.

Mother neweems to be jealous of him or mous because of his wonderful own. As for me envying you a ople of foolish-looking sticks on y head, pooh!" she retorted.

"They may not look like much now," admitted Spike, "but you just wait."

"Wait for what?" asked his sister.

"Wait until they grow. Wait until they have lot of points like Father's. Th I'll be as handsome as he" boasted Spike.

"Those thgs grow!" snorted Daintyfoot Don't tell me you think such ld things can grow! I knew you were foolish, but I didn't think you were that foolish. Have they grown any since last summer?"

"Don't you wish you had a pair of sharp points like mine to fight with?"

"No," admitted her brother, rather unwillingly "But they may start growing any time," he added hopefully.

"Pooh!" jeered his sister, and bounded away

"She does envy me, but won't admit it," gloated Spike and in a fit of temper beat a small bush with his antlers as he had seen his father threaten break a big bush with his great antlers He felt better then, as soon was as prideful as ever from a distance he would watch his father and admire the wonderful crown of antlers that Lightfoot wore, and wonder how long it would take for his own antlers to grow to be like those. It didn't enter his head that they might not grow. Of course they would, just as he himself would grow some day be as big as his father, handsomest Deer in all the Green Forest. And, dreaming of that day to come, he was more prideful than ever.

The next story: "Spike Feels Dreadfully."

BIGGES approached Superintendent Jones in his most ingratiating manner. "Mr. Jones," he said, "I beg you to give me tomorrow off. My wife is moving and she wants me to help with the heavy pieces."

"Sorry, Bigges," said the superintendent, "but I've been expecting you to ask for this time off. Your wife called me up and said you were the clumsiest oaf she ever saw and under no circumstances did she want you around while she was moving that furniture."

Bigges face fell and he walked to the door of the office. Just as he was leaving, he turned back. "Mr. Jones," he said, "there are two men in this organization that use the truth very loosely. I ain't married."

Person after person approached the taxicab parked outside of the fashionable New York hotel. But the driver imperiously waved them away. Finally the doorman got to him. "Listen," the doorman yelled, "what's the idea of refusing these fares?"

The cabbie looked stubborn. "The minute I take one," he explained, "I'll lose my place at the head of the line."

House Slams Brakes on State Spending

$42,000,000 LIMIT FIXED BY COMMITTEE

Study Estimates Total Ohio Revenue at $422,000,000 For 1947-48 Period.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— The house slammed on the brakes against spending proposals in the senate today with the unanimous adoption of a report limiting all increases in expenditures to 42 million dollars in the coming biennium.

The report, prepared by the special "economy committee" headed by Rep. Paul Ballard (R., Jackson) and already endorsed by Governor Herbert, asserted that all appropriations for current operations in 1947-48 must come from current revenues.

It estimated these revenues at 422 million dollars, including all fees and federal subsidies.

It also estimated funds already earmarked by the partial appropriations bill, if extended to the remainder of the biennium, at 380 millions. This would leave only 42 million dollars available to meet the demands of schools, local governments and state employes.

The report also stated that the total could be increased to 53 millions if 11 millions appropriated for operating expenses last biennium but unexpended at the end of 1946 were included.

Calls Demands High.

"Either of these figures," the report stated, "is insufficient to meet the increased demands from all departments of government now filed with the department of finance.

"If Ohio is to continue to operate on a pay-as-you-go basis, without new or increased taxes, appropriations during this biennium must not exceed estimated receipts. In other words, if the 97th general assembly increases the cost of government beyond 422 million dollars, it will be necessary to delve into the (160 million dollar) surplus, or enact new taxes."

As against the 42 millions available for increases, schools are asking at least 66 millions more, local governments 22 millions more, and state employes at least ten millions more in wages for a total requested increase of approximately 100 million dollars from these three sources alone.

The report said nothing as to who should receive what share of the 42 million dollars, Ballard stating on the floor that that was a problem for the legislature to decide.

"We must stay within the 42 million dollar limit," Ballard stated. "It's just simple addition and subtraction. If you delve into the surplus, you would come back next session to face the same demands, only to find the money isn't here. If you delve into the surplus, that constitutes deficit financing."

Democratic Minority Leader John Cantwell (D., Mahoning) also urged adoption of the report, declaring that "it is high time good business methods are applied to state government." The report was adopted without a single objection.

Governor Herbert stated to newsmen that "I believe it is a very fair report and portrays our situation exactly," and added:

"Pay-as-you-go government always has been my objective."

The governor added, however, that he would not be averse to dipping into the surplus for what he termed "non-recurring operating expenses" or to finance the start of the administration of a soldier bonus if a bonus is approved by the people in November.

Writer Returns From Seminar

Miss Nita Branson, News-Journal feature writer and reporter, has returned from a three-day newspaper seminar at Wooster college.

The seminar, planned by members of the Ohio Newspaper Women's association, was the first of its kind ever held in Ohio, and possibly in the country. Patterned after the national seminars for newspaper men at Columbia University, the three-day sessions dealt with problems of interest to newspaper women.

Among discussion leaders were Norman Shaw, of the Cleveland Press; James Crossley of the Columbus Citizen; James Moore of the Dayton Herald; John Day of the Dayton News, and William Powers of the Youngstown Vindicator. All are managing editors.

Although it was a "work" session, the 30 newspaper women, took time out for a tea given by Dr. Howard Lowry, president of Wooster college, and his mother.

ONWA members made plans for another seminar soon. Dr. Brown invited them to return to Wooster college.

170 New Autos Sold In December

Sales of new autos to Richland countians in January dropped to 170 from the December total of 200, highest since production resumed after the end of World War II.

Truck sales, however, climbed to 49 during the month, 17 more than in December, title registrations at the office of the county clerk of courts show. New car sales in January a year ago totaled only 30 while 29 truck certificates were filed that month.

FEB.18 SET AS DEATH DATE

Gruner, Underground Fighter In Holy Land, Refuses To Make Appeal.

JERUSALEM —(U.P.)—Execution of Dov Gruner, convicted Jewish underground member, has been set for Feb. 18, usually reliable sources reported today.

Gruner sent word to the prison superintendent that he did not want to see anyone. He has turned aside all pleas from Jewish religious leaders and attorneys to appeal his hanging sentence to the privy council in London.

The execution of Gruner, originally expected last Tuesday, has been regarded widely as the starting signal for violent retaliation by Irgun Zvai Leumi, the underground organization to which he belongs.

It was uncertain whether he knew that his sister, Mrs. Helen Friedman of Lancaster, Pa., was flying here from New York this week. She plans a personal plea for him to seek clemency. He has refused similar requests because he does not wish to acknowledge British legal authority in Palestine.

British authorities went swiftly ahead turning sections of Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and other cities into fortress. They are consolidating their position for a death battle with the underground.

In Jerusalem, 700 Arabs and Jews whose homes were within the British security zone or cantonment area received eviction orders to vacate them by noon Thursday. The houses will be used as billets for security troops and "essential" British officers and civilians.

Next Monday is the deadline for the Jewish agency to meet the government's demand for a public statement urging Palestine's 600,000 Jews to help police and troops wipe out the Jewish underground. Agency leaders have not yet replied formally but have hinted that they may reject the ultimatum.

Legion Sponsors 'Safety Quiz'

With Mansfield Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals and Col. George Mingle, superintendent of the State Highway patrol, as guests, McVey Post No. 16, American Legion will conduct its first "Safety Quiz," tonight at 8 o'clock at the Legion home.

Designed to stimulate an increased interest in a safety drive sponsored by the State Highway patrol and the American Legion, the program will also honor the 32 Legion members who make up the auxiliary of the Highway Patrol and who spent 2,546 hours on active duty last year.

LEAVES FOR MEETING

J. Howard Glasener, Mansfield contractor, left today for Dayton where he will attend a three-day meeting of representatives of Extermical Chemicals, Inc. Glasener, local representative of the chemical firm, said information would be exchanged and new developments reported during the sessions.

COUNCIL BUYS WATER CONDUIT RIGHT-OF-WAY

Another phase of Mansfield's $1,000,000 Clear Fork reservoir project was launched last night. City council authorized the purchase of a water conduit right-of-way.

Council approved the purchase for a sum not to exceed $2,000. The right-of-way is to connect the Clear Fork reservoir with the city's Woodland reservoir.

Construction of the project dam is well underway and land clearing has started. Some reservoir land still is to be purchased.

If the predicted schedule is maintained, the dam will be completed this August. The clearing work will start by September or early October. First water is to flow into the reservoir early next year; the reservoir is to be filled by October, 1948.

Recruiter Added To Staff Here

Addition of another recruiter to the staff of the Mansfield naval station was announced today by John T. Daley, chief recruiter. Gunners Mate second class, Boyd W. "Woody" Wooton, of Columbus, has joined the staff here. Wooton saw four years of service in the Southwest Pacific during the war. He served on such famous ships as the USS Essex and South Dakota.

She Reads What to Do—Then Does It

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Her husband was away getting the doctor. She was all alone. So, says Mrs. Shirley Beaird, 20:

"I'd read what to do in such cases—and I just did it. There wasn't any time to get excited." When Dallas Beaird returned with the doctor, they found Mrs. B. and new daughter Laura Lee in excellent condition.

OFFENSE IS BASIS OF NAVAL PROGRAM

The postwar naval reserve program is built around the theory "that a good offense is the best defense," members and guests of the Mansfield Rotary club were informed at their noon luncheon in the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday.

Lt. Cmdr. Thomas B. Wright, jr., commanding officer of Division 195, Mansfield organized naval reserve, explained that "the navy has pledged that the blue jackets who died at that infamous day at Pearl Harbor shall not have died in vain."

Cmdr. Wright was introduced by Millard H. Pryor, chairman of the Naval Reserve Advisory Council of Mansfield.

Mansfield Rotary president Robert Porter paid tribute to recently deceased Paul Harris, founder of Rotary in 1905. Eugene Smart read a letter from the Rotary club of Liege, France, extending greetings to the Mansfield club.

Thief Not as Kind To Auto as Owner

A thief was kind—and then, again, perhaps not so kind—Monday night to S. O. Riggleman, 299 West Fifth street.

Riggleman told police that someone stole his car from a garage, damaged the fender and a bumper and then returned the car to the garage.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1947

Poor timing is evidenced by the several Mansfielders who selected this week to return home from Florida.

According to at least one dietitian, "alfalfa sad is a highly healthful food for human beings"—but those who prefer spinach will probably be slow in making a shift.

A controversy is now on as to who wrote the nutty number, "Open the Door, Richard"—which is reported to be "sweeping the country"—but guilt has not yet been established.

Should Review Board Remain 'Dormant'?

NOW that Mayor Vaughn has announced that Mansfield's Public Appeals Review board is to remain "dormant" until there is expression of public desire for resumption of its service, the matter of frequent, and sometimes overlapping, solicitation for contributions to various worthy causes will require some other supervisory attention if all are to succeed.

Purpose of the review board, as established last summer, was to consider and approve applications for fund solicitation, with a view to assigning suitable times for campaigns, and also protecting the public from some of the questionable solicitation schemes that have developed in other parts of the country.

Functioning of the review board during the few months that it was in operation evidenced potentialities which appeared to justify continuance, the only handicap being the difficulty of fixing time of meetings so that a majority of board members could attend.

Difficulty being encountered in reaching Richland county's goal of $6,000 in the March of Dimes campaign can be attributed only to the frequency with which calls for contributions have been made, rather than to any lack of public sympathy with the purposes to which that fund is devoted.

Development of the Community Fund method of concentrating solicitations into one annual campaign was the outgrowth of an early decision to do away with almost constant money-raising activities, and to make sure that contributed funds served useful purposes. The Public Appeals Review board was obviously designed to perform a somewhat similar community service, and it may be—when given further consideration—that the results will be regarded as justifying the effort involved in its maintenance.

Two-Term Limit Again Proposed

SHOULD any person serve more than eight years as president of the United States? It now appears possible that this question may be placed before the voters of the nation. It is not a new idea. From the time that George Washington declined to consider a third term until the advent of Franklin D. Roosevelt it was generally accepted that "two terms is enough." At times there was talk of putting the idea into the written law, but there was never any real need for such action until the end of Mr. Roosevelt's second term and then, of course, there was not the faintest chance of getting such an amendment passed.

Now the situation is different. A Republican congress has the power to submit such an amendment to the people. It has already gained committee approval. The amendment, one of several proposals aired before the house judiciary subcommittee, is likely to get into the lower chamber for full debate soon. It was proposed by Congressman Michener (R., Mich.) and has already leaped the first hurdle of committee approval.

Michener's proposed amendment would limit presidential tenure to two terms of four years each, whether consecutive or not. Part of a term would be considered a full term. A vice president succeeding to the highest office because of a vacancy could run for only one additional term.

The house or senate might change these stipulations. Both house and senate would have to pass the amendment by two-thirds majorities and it would have to be approved by at least 36 of the 48 states before it could become law.

However, the question is up again. It has been fairly well crystallized by congressional action to date. There would certainly be no harm in letting the voters at large express their opinion on this and perhaps on the suggestion of a single six-year term. The latter has also been frequently mentioned as a means of keeping presidents from devoting a large portion of their time to means of being re-elected.

Antitoxin Has Cut Diphtheria Toll

DEATHS from diphtheria have been so rare in this area for a number of years that it had been rather taken for granted that effective immunization had become so general as to safeguard all present-day children against what was once classed among the most dangerous diseases—with a high percentage of fatal results.

Discovery of a diphtheria antitoxin, and its later successful use, has resulted in greatly reducing the mortality of this disease, but failure to make immunization compulsory in all sections has opened the way for a recurrence of outbreaks in various parts of the country, with the death of one Richland county child already recorded.

As with vaccination against smallpox, there has been some resistance to compulsion in immunization against diphtheria, but the record of accomplishments in this field of medical science has been such as to argue strongly for general acceptance of this precautionary practice.

Estimating the Cost of Strikes

THE American Economic Foundation has made an effort to measure the cost to workers, industry and the public at large, of five of the principal postwar strikes. The conclusions gleaned are necessarily incomplete, due to the many intangibles involved—but it is evident that the cost is immeasurably greater than most people realize.

Between September 1, 1945, and September 30, 1946, more than 124,000,000 man-days were lost because of strikes, according to the bureau of labor statistics. Assigning 8 hours to each day, and assuming that the lower figure of $1 per hour was the average wage, this means that more than $998,000,000 was lost in direct wages alone—to say nothing of the infinitely greater loss in production of goods, related layoffs in other industries, etc.

In the coal strike in the spring of 1946, wage loss to miners, according to the Bituminous Coal Institute, totaled $145,000,000. But that was only the start of it. According to the CPA administrator, the secondary cost, measured in lost production affecting all Americans, was $2,000,000,000.

Last year saw the worst Russian drought in 50 years, it is now announced. Coming on top of five years of war and Nazi devastation, this is one more reason why Russia does not want war.

THE HIGHER YOU ARE THE FURTHER YOU FALL

General Marshall Moves Rapidly, Making Ready For Moscow Meet

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Those who have watched General Marshall close-up think he has made an excellent, fast-moving start as secretary of state. However, they still have their fingers crossed. Too many "new brooms" have come into the state department before. They rarely sweep out the corners, seldom get the dust out from under diplomatic rugs. In his brief tenure, however, Marshall has:

(1) Named able, sometimes timid Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson as chief of staff with complete authority to cleanse the department.

(2) Backed up Spruille Braden's position that Argentina must purge the Nazis. Simultaneously, Marshall avoided an unpleasant situation with windy Ambassador George Messersmith.

(3) Pledged his firm belief that the state department is a civilian agency and should be run by civilians, not brasshats. To this end, Marshall has told intimates he will bring no generals or regular army men into the state department.

(4) Moved to solve one thorny United Nations headache — the atom bomb. Without appearing to do so, he's eased tension on the red-hot atomic-energy issue, so long debated in New York.

Diplomats Agog.

Secretary Marshall's breathtaking pace has set the usually staid Washington diplomatic corps afire. Diplomats who rarely stir from their offices can now be seen whispering at cocktail parties, bouncing around hotel luncheon tables comparing notes on the significance of Marshall's every move. The diplomatic cables have been cluttered with memoranda from Washington embassies analyzing the new secretary of state.

Marshall upset members of the British colony by holding his first lengthy diplomatic talk with Soviet Ambassador Novikov, not Britain's Lord Inverchapel.

Later, Marshall met the new Polish ambassador. The interview lasted seven minutes. Marshall said hello, made it bluntly clear that the United States regards the latest Polish elections as a joke, sent him trotting on his way. Marshall was equally decisive on the Chinese crisis, landed a haymaker on Chiang Kai-shek's chin by announcing the recall of U. S. troops, which, in effect, have been helping the Kuomintang fight the Communists.

Cabled Stalin.

Marshall has served notice that he'll deal with only a maximum of eight top state department officials daily. This may or may not be a good thing, since it's dangerous for a secretary of state to get too isolated. He wants all memos written on a single page, will countenance no undercutting by subordinates. Many a stuffed shirt who played hard and fast with Ed Stettinius' innocence or Jimmy Byrnes' good nature now will find himself reduced to the rear echelon.

Marshall wants to conserve his strength for the one big battle ahead—working out a permanent peace with Russia.

Marshall knows the Russians, has dealt with them before. Now he's determined to make one final effort to reach agreement on all issues from Germany to the Dardanelles.

If the Russians meet him halfway, there'll be peace. If they don't, the world will know plainly who is to blame. Marshall already has cabled Stalin for a full-dress talk in Moscow next March.

Note—One Marshall error was to let able, hard-hitting Joe Panuch resign as deputy assistant secretary of state for administration. Panuch knows government inside-out, did a bang-up job of administration despite little cooperation from the career clique. Now that he has left, Marshall has already reversed one Byrnes decision which is a victory for Panuch. He soon will move the state department to more efficient quarters several blocks from the department's present location next to the White House. This was a Panuch proposal.

How to Prune 1,000,000.

Though GOP Congressmen John Taber of New York and Harold Knutson of Minnesota boasted that government personnel could be reduced by 1,000,000 employes, neither congressman was able to answer the $64 question as to where the personnel cuts could be made. The question was lengthily debated at the closed meeting of the joint budget committee, but nobody could answer it.

Taber harped at length on public relations employes throughout the government—"propagandists," he called them — who should be purged at once from the payroll. But, outside of that, he and Knutson had little to offer the committee. At one point, Democratic Congressman John Dingell of Michigan broke in on the New York Republican:

"All right, I'm willing to be educated," he said. "I don't want any nonessential employes sponging on the taxpayers. But suppose you tell us where all of them are."

"Most of them are in the war department," replied Taber. "How about all those civilian employes with our occupation forces overseas? There are about 300,000, I understand."

Taber held that the 300,000, mostly war veterans, should be dischafged and replaced by citizens of occupied countries, who could be recruited without pay.

"Why not put some of the people in occupied countries to work so they can earn their keep?" Taber demanded.

* * *

Put Nazis to Work.

"Do I understand the gentleman clearly?" inquired Dingell acidly. "Does he want the United States Army to employ aliens?"

Committee colleagues roared while the New Yorker groped for a reply. Dingell went on to explain that most of the civilian overseas jobs, including military government work, had to be filled by "tried and true" Americans for security reasons.

"Well, I suppose we have to have our own people in some of these jobs," grumbled Taber, "but I still think we ought to get some work out of these citizens in the occupied areas. We are keeping a lot of them for nothing."

Representative Albert Gore of Tennessee and other Democrats also objected to the Taber-Knutson "meat-ax" approach to personnel trimming.

Readers Forum

A Pastor Replies.

Editor News-Journal:

Readers of P. H. Root's objection to an editorial in the Mansfield News-Journal of Jan. 26, "Right To Teach Religion Upheld," are shocked by the blasphemies uttered by Mr. Root. This reader should like to call Mr. Root's attention to an article by the noted American author Dorothy Thompson in the November issue of the Ladies Home Journal, reprinted in Today's World, in which the demand of atheists to broadcast their pagan doctrine into christian homes is discussed.

If the existence of God, or a Supreme Being, is a matter of controversy in the United States, then we must not only remove "In God We Trust" from our coins, but we shall have to change all our great national hymns from "My Country, 'tis of Thee" to "God Bless America" and scrap our whole Constitution. Mr. Root most certainly would be a fool to waste any time on a man-made god, but he seems to be doing just that.

Those coins from which he wants the "In God We Trust" removed are most terrible idols to which he seems to have dedicated his life, twenty years ago. The blasphemy about the million or more Polish christians is an insult not only to God but to every believing christian. Russian Communists have indoctrinated children in that way. They had hungry school children pray to God for food and none was forthcoming. Then they made them pray to "Father Stalin" and immediately the horn of plenty was poured out to them.

Indeed, religion is ridiculous to the ignorant but most sublime for the searcher after truth. To quote Dorothy Thompson: "Woe to the nation that destroys its altars! For new altars will surely be built, to idols with terrible faces and bloody hands, carrying whips and swords. Such is the judgment of history, ancient and modern."

Presenting the Case Of Mr. and Mrs. Blank.

WASHINGTON—Society and a stadium are making me sick at my stomach nowadays.

It's the housing situation again.

Let's take society first. Personally, I have no use for it. It's a bunch of stuffed shirts, male and female, no matter whether you find it in New York, Washington or Podunk. But somehow, it always exists.

This little item, devoid of names to sidestep the libel laws, appeared in a dignified Washington newspaper this past week-end:

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank, who keep an apartment here in order to breeze down from Wilmington from time to time to see what it's like in a world where every one isn't named Blank, have gone west. They left Thursday for Phoenix, Arizona, for a month's sojourn. . . . "

Now that's all there is to it. Apparently, Mr. and Mrs. Blank have living quarters in Wilmington, Washington and Phoenix, Arizona. Which is very nice, if you can do it.

But it does so happen that there are thousands of Americans, and many of them veterans, who have no place to live today—no apartment or room or house they can call their own. Such people would like very much to have that apartment in Washington which is kept by Mr. and Mrs. Blank just for those occasions on which they choose to breeze down to Washington to see how the other half lives.

If that sort of thing just happened once in a while it would be different. But it happens all the time. Of course, those who stick up for high society say that the apartment the Blanks maintain here in Washington is too expensive for the average home-hunter, which is quite true.

But what such an obvious truth overlooks is that the Blank apartment would be rented by someone who could afford it, and that person, in turn, would give up a lower-priced abode which could be taken over by someone now without a home.

So much for high society which, as I say, is so thick here in Washington that it makes you sick at your stomach.

And now for the stadium situation.

A couple or three years ago, a congressional plan was drawn up to build a memorial stadium here in Washington. The idea was that it was to be a memorial to the World War II dead, or something like that.

Somehow it got fouled up, partially because it was placed in the hands of a committee with a guy named Bilbo—Senator Bilbo, Sir—on board. When the plan came out of the committee room, it involved a stadium which would seat approximately a quarter of a million people, would have a building roof on top to be adaptable to either sunny or rainy weather, and would call for spending about a hundred thousand dollars for architect's drawings alone.

Naturally it got "tabled"—which is congressional language for relegating anything to limbo.

But, all of a sudden, it has come up again, this time on a much more practical basis. That is to say, they're considering a sensible stadium, which might pay for itself in time.

Well, that's fine, and I'm in favor of such things—particularly if they pay for themselves, instead of using up the taxpayers' money. But that doesn't fully settle the subject, even yet.

For instance, if congress is going to appropriate money for such a project, why not put it into something that will be a real veterans' memorial.

Why not build an apartment project instead?

After all, there are a lot of guys who didn't (and I repeat, didn't) die during the last war, who, by the sheer fate of the gods, are alive today and fighting to make a living in this postwar world.

For a lot of them, it isn't easy, and the lack of a place to live isn't the least of their problems. In fact, far too often it becomes the point around which their future revolves.

So, wouldn't the mightiest memorial of all be the building of a place where the boys who were lucky enough to dodge a white cross over their heads could come back and call a home of their own?

I think so. I think we can dispense with the society "extra homes" and the "memorial stadiums" in favor of that sort of a project.

Reciprocal Trade Essential to Stability.

WASHINGTON—It is interesting to watch and listen from the galleries of congress—if you have a consciousness of history—and to wish, for the sake of our own best welfare, that things could be changed back in some ways and fit into a consistent perspective of history.

For example, there was the scene in the house a few days ago.

It was McKinley day. Every year Republicans in the house observe the birthday of that president by wearing a red carnation. That was his favorite flower.

Democrats join in the observance, too, for William McKinley, before he became president, was a distinguished member of the house and by now has become a nonpartisan figure.

Rep. Jenkins (R., O.) made a speech lauding Ohio's martyred president. But there was one thing he did not mention. He omitted the fact that the Republican president was a great advocate of reciprocal-tariff arrangements with other nations to lower trade barriers, a policy that Mr. McKinley had adopted from earlier Republicans, including James G. Blaine who, as secretary of state, had originated the reciprocal theory.

In fact, the Republican party invented the reciprocal tariff formula and once took great pride in it.

The inconsistency of history was dramatized there in the person of Rep. Jenkins lauding William McKinley.

For the Ohio congressman has introduced a resolution requesting the president to postpone any further negotiations for adjustment of tariffs under the reciprocal-trade program until further study. For some time now the state department has been holding public hearings preliminary to further negotiations.

In other words, Mr. Jenkins would stop this whole procedure. He is a member of the ways and means committee, now Republican-controlled, which has before it a number of bills and resolutions to suspend or call off the reciprocal tariff program which, in its present form, was devised by Secretary of State Hull, a Democrat.

In his last speech at Buffalo, where he was assassinated, President McKinley urged promotion of reciprocal-trade arrangements with other nations. That was in 1901. No one has ever put the case better than did Mr. McKinley when he said:

"A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued and healthful growth of our export trade. We must not repose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little or nothing.

"If such a thing were possible, it would not be best for us or for those with whom we shall deal. We should take from our customers such of their products as we can use without harm to our industries and labor. Reciprocity is the mutual outgrowth of our wonderful industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established."

Most economists agree that a high tariff policy was wrong after World War I and is just as wrong today. Before, other nations built up their tariff walls against us in retaliation, free trade among nations was stifled, and we went through that era of nationalism that contributed to World War II.

Fear and Suspicion Still Hamper Mankind.

WASHINGTON — When Adam ate of the fruit of the tree of knowledge, man's troubles began. From that moment, fear and suspicion bedeviled the once innocent dwellers in the Garden of Eden.

Something like that first fear and suspicion have come out of our knowledge of how to split the atom. In the hearings into the confirmation of David E. Lilienthal to be chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, you could almost feel the fear and mistrust which hung over the men who sat around the green baize table. It was oppressive and deeply troubling.

Suspicion feeds on suspicion. It is an appetite that grows with feeding. That is one of the tragic aspects of Canada's discovery of a Soviet espionage network reaching into government departments and the military services.

A correspondent has written pointing out that in the first reaction to discovery of the spy network, the Canadian government clapped the suspects into jail and held them incommunicado for questioning and cross-examination by a royal commission. The correspondent enclosed an editorial from the Montreal Daily Star commenting on the acquittal of one of the six defendants:

"But public opinion never approved the extra-judicial methods employed, and its instance in this respect is being proved steadily more sound. Due processes of law exist, the observance of which are vital to the maintenance of our tradition of justice and to the protection of the liberty of our citizens. These were discarded in favor of methods which were identical in principle, if less brutal in practice, with those of the German gestapo and the Russian OGPU.

"Fortunately the victims of this procedure were eventually brought into court, where the case against them was placed under the scrutiny of our normal system of justice. There the wheat was carefully sifted from the chaff, resulting in the conviction of some and the acquittal of others. But it sharply raises the question why, from the very beginning, the same methods were not employed."

The answer to that question is, it seems to me, fairly obvious. The answer is: FEAR. Under the circumstances, it is not hard to understand why fear should have been the first reaction.

From June of 1941, Canada and Russia had been allies. Canada had sent enormous supplies of food and armaments to the Soviet Union. In addition, private citizens had sent substantial relief to the Russian ally. Then, suddenly, just at the war's end it is discovered that Russia has been hiring spies to ferret out Canada's strategic secrets. It is small wonder that, in the first reaction, the suspects were held in jail contrary to the basic guarantees of Canadian law.

Much of the information obtained by the Soviet agents, the Soviet embassy in Ottawa, could have been had by asking the Canadian government. That is the saddest commentary of all on the whole sorry mess.

It suggests that the Russians are afflicted by the habit of intrigue to such an extent that they prefer the devious method to the open.

Two things seem to me terrifyingly clear. First, unless we in America achieve rational civilian control over this new force, we are likely to lapse into a military dictatorship, second, unless international suspicions are overcome, the danger of a war of infinite destructiveness will grow greater. The fruit of this tree of knowledge will not be denied.

REPUBLICAN congressmen are thinking of demanding Henry Morgenthau's diary as soon as enough trucks are available to move it.

Henry turned out 900 volumes or enough to float a Diary of the Month club until the year 2022 without refilling his pen.

* * *

The only way congress can ever get to read the diary is by concerted action . . . There are 435 congressmen and it works out a little more than two volumes apiece.

But there is something awe-inspiring in the fact that all the books of the Bible are contained in one thin volume and Henry has given us the New Deal in 900 volumes.

We now begin to see the relative importance of the Story of Creation and the Days of Emergency.

It certainly must have known that Blanchard, Davis and Poole were going to ask for the furloughs and it could have told them firmly but with no grandstand plays that it was thumbs down and no fooling.

Instead, it spread all over the country on one day the news about the application, and inside of 24 hours gave out with flourishes and ruffles the news of the turndown.

* * *

The result was to make the war department and a lot of politicians look extra pure and to make three West Point cadets look like heels.

Somebody somewhere badly advised the cadets, but it seems to me that somewhere down the line between the academy and Washington a treatment less linked up with big headlines and wide publicity was possible.

pany is concerned," a representative said, "we have not been handicapped by a freight car shortage."

Crop Movement In Danger.

In Washington, witnesses told a senate commerce sub-committee inquiring into the situation, that lack of freight cars is endangering the movement of crops and stifling industrial production, the Associated Press reported.

Officials of the Association of American railroads described the boxcar deficit as the worst in the nation's history.

Meanwhile, railway car builders announced they had stepped up operations to produce 7,000 cars a month by April.

Steel industry officials have promised to provide enough steel to meet such a rate, President R. V. Fletcher of the A.A.R. said.

100,000 More Cars Needed.

But this, apparently, will not be an immediate solution. Railroad leaders believe 100,000 more boxcars are needed. The Office of Defense transportation has asked for production of 120,000 freight cars this year.

Quicker aid is expected from reduction of "Turn-around time," the number of days elapsing between loads Latest figure showed this average about 13 days in December.

Warren C. Kendall, A.A.R. official, estimated that each reduction of one day in turn-around time is equivalent to adding 100,000 cars to the railroad's freight-carrying equipment.

At the present time American railroads have 725,000 boxcars in service.

Teacher Pay Explanation 'Satisfies' P-TA Committee

P-TA units and of the teachers.

"Apparently some of the teachers have misunderstood the pay system and have failed to go to their principals for the proper explanation. If they get no satisfaction from their principal then they should go to the superintendent or the board itself and have their questions answered," he said.

Not Used For Land.

Another complaint answered by the board is that of some critics who contend that money from the three-mill levy, proposed to the public last fall as needed for increased operating expenses, is being spent for land purchases in the board's building program.

"That would not only be illegal but also impossible since we've made no major land purchases since money from the levy started coming in," Bruce said.

E. B. Boling, chairman of the P-TA committee, said one person had asked him to find why the board spent "between $20,000 and $25,000 of the levy money on land purchase."

John Eisaman, clerk of the board, said that such an expenditure was not made and suggested that an accounting error he made last summer may have caused the misunderstanding.

"Last May and June $22,450 was spent out of the general fund for purchase of land for the West Fifth school site It should have been taken from the construction funds provided by the $2,111,000 bond issue. When I caught the error in December, the amount was credited to the general fund and charged to the construction fund," he said.

Eisaman said that both the error and correction was made long before any of the money from the three-mill levy was received.

Another complaint that teachers' experience ratings had been reduced was confirmed as fact by Supt. Miller who pointed out, however, that in no case had any teacher's minimum salary base been less after a salary schedule change than it was before.

"There may be good arguments against reduction of the experience rating but every school system does the same thing because most teachers don't like to see a new teacher come into the system and be rated on a par with them," Miller said.

Members of the P-TA committee, besides Hauserman, Mrs Kalstein and Boling, are C. H. Freehafer and F. F. Smith.

FAMILY MESSAGE NUMBER 11

Why you owe it to your family to make a Will

No matter how carefully you plan for your family's future through life insurance, it is important to provide for the distribution of your other possessions through a will. . . . . Here is some helpful advice about wills from Logan Fulrath, Chairman of the Section on Wills, Trusts and Estates of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

1 Why you need to make a will

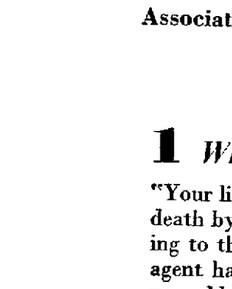
"Your life insurance becomes payable at your death by your life insurance company according to the arrangements which you and your agent have made. This money, if payable to named beneficiaries, does not come under your will. But some part of it may be subject to death taxes; and in that case directions as to the source of payment of such taxes should be contained in your will.

"The arrangements which you have made as to your life insurance, however perfect, will not cover the disposition of your personal effects, real estate, cash, stocks or bonds. These are distributable, if there is no will, according to the laws of your State, and without regard to any particular wishes you may have concerning them. Also, if you leave no will, an administrator will be appointed to handle them, under bond, at the expense of your estate."

2 How to go about making a will

"This is one thing you should not try to do yourself. The preparation of such a document requires skill in the planning, in the writing and in the execution, and you should go to a lawyer in whom you have confidence both for ability and personal integrity.

"You should tell your lawyer in detail about your assets and the persons to whom you would like to have them distributed. You should also tell him about your insurance, so that he can estimate the amount of death taxes, if any, and make provision for their payment in the will.



"Your will may be changed at any time during your life, but on death it becomes effective to execute your wishes only as it is written. It is a most important document, and should be drawn very carefully."

3 After the will is made

"Life is a process of constant transformation and change. Times change, people change, laws change, and assets change. Your will may have been suitable ten years ago; but with the passage of time and events it may not be suitable today. Therefore your will, like your life insurance plan, should be kept up to date.

"In view of this process of change, it is best to confer on your executor and trustee broad powers, and that means that you should appoint an executor or trustee in whom you have absolute confidence. Usually a trust company, close relative or friend, or a combination of them, is named.

"Your will should be kept in a place where it will be safe and at the same time readily available at your death. You may leave it with your lawyer, with a bank or trust company, or in your own home; and it is wise to inform someone whom you can trust where it may be found."

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such future family plans as a new home, education, travel.

* * *

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 72,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

Combined Meeting of Study Clubs Held In Leland Ballroom

WHEN America Thinks, America Is Safe" was the topic ably presented Tuesday evening by D'Orsey Hurst of the Cleveland Council on World Affairs, when members of the Little Flower Study club were hosts to Timely Topics club members and Santa Maria Study club members and their husbands in the Mansfield-Leland ballroom.

D'ORSEY HURST

Mrs. T. J. McDermott, president of the hostess group, introduced Roger H. Bolin, who in turn presented his friend, Mr. Hurst, to the audience.

Mr. Bolin gave a brief resume of the activities of the World Council and a short biographical sketch on Mr. Hurst. He stated the aim of the council was to educate Americans on world affairs and their place in America. The council was organized 25 years ago but has grown into a nation-wide project. Mr. Hurst is affiliated with the Cleveland council which is one of the most active chapters, having a membership of 4,000. At the present time he is Cleveland manager of Time magazine

Mr. Hurst explained, "World problems cannot be solved on the basis of dollars and machines It is man alone who can control science and wealth. Mechanical civilizations and prosperous states are not necessarily good and peaceful. History and daily experience provide ample evidence of this. For the good life we need personality and character. These are not wholly produced through the application of principles of political and economic freedom. In addition to this, intellectual, moral and spiritual elements are absolutely essential. The crying need of today is for wholesome education in the home, in the school, in the church, in the state —education based on the principles of the value of human personality.

Hopes for a democracy are based on an enlightened public opinion. The responsibility of leaders is to enable people to get access to the facts, to help them think reflectively on high levels, rather than encourage them to accept opinions and snap judgments offered by propagandists. People trained to think will raise their voices intelligently, and representatives in congresses, senates, or parliaments will take notice and will serve people rather than things, peace rather than war"

Barclay On Bridge

If YOU wait for an absolutely sure thing before you will bid a grand slam, you may have an awful long time to wait. The successful player, who every once in a while puts the big slam bonus on his score, is the fellow who takes winning chances—those in which he has an appreciably greater chance to gain than to lose. The same principle applies to grand slams as to any other level of bidding—measure the size of the possible gain against the possible loss, then consider how great is the probability of success or failure of your effort.

After South ran thirteen consecutive tricks—which also could have been run just as well at 7-No Trumps—East criticised South for his bidding. That worthy, Edward Lasker, keen in radio program planning as well as other things, admitted that his second bid of 3-Clubs was a bit unorthodox, but a rather neat way of finding if his partner could fit diamonds well enough to show a preference.

After North bid the 3-Diamonds, Mr. Lasker was ready for big business, so used the Blackwood 4-No Trumps to ask about aces. He felt sure North would have at least one to justify his free bid over West's 1-Spade on the first round, and therefore he would at the worst be willing to seek 6-Diamonds. When the response of 5-Hearts showed two aces, he went all the way to the grand slam.

East pointed out that South could not possibly know about North's two queens. Maybe not. But the club Q was not required; a ruff would have served just as well. And the diamond Q probably would have been unnecessary if North had four little trumps, or even the J-10 if East held the guarded Q and advertised it by his bad double.

IBERIA SEEKING FIRE FIGHTERS

IBERIA — A group of Iberia residents today had under consideration plans for organizing a fire fighting unit in Washington township.

Impetus was given the movement at a meeting last week when Charles R. Scott, assistant state fire marshal in charge of rural fire protection, spoke before a group of Township citizens.

Scott declared that to maintain a successful fire department, the organization and training must be good. He said "much consideration" should be given to insure the purchase of the proper type of equipment adaptable to the rural community.

A survey has shown that it will be necessary to erect a building to house the equipment in the event the community chooses to carry out a complete program.

Those attending the meeting were Morgan Agard, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Aleci, Donald Baker, Don Bosh, Earl Bowman, Earl Brady, Wilson Burggraf, Horace Braden, Herbert Cross, Ed Hall, Frank Hershner, Orris Lepp, G. D. McCown.

James McClarren, T. L. Johnson, Joe McDonald, Howard Osborne, Ralph Riddle, Foster Roesch, Eugene Rinehart, R. L. and M. Doyle Rusk, Earl Stoneburner, Claude Shelton, Loy Struthers and Aaron Smith.

$3,500 Sanitary Measure Is Approved By Council.

GALION—City council last night authorized construction of two sanitary sewers at a cost of more than $3,500. It also authorized the city solicitor to draw up legislation to enable construction of the North Market street sewer.

An estimate made by City Engineer K. A. Poister for a sanitary sewer on Hartman street and South Boston street, amounting to $1,281, was accepted. Another estimate which he made for a sanitary sewer on Second avenue, south of Smith street, amounting to $2,231, was also accepted.

William Kunkel, chairman of the street and sewer committee recommended hard surfacing South Washington street when materials and labor was available.

Council passed two resolutions, one authorizing and directing the director of public service to sell one 1-30 single drive Galion motor grader, and the other authorizing the auditor to pay for two deeds for land donated to the city of Galion for the widening of Hartman street, at the cost of $3 each.

Church Opens Box Buried 47 Years

GALION — Four persons who attended the corner stone laying of the First Evangelical United Brethren church in August, 1900, were present for services of the congregation Sunday morning at the East school when the box was opened. They were Mrs. John Steele, Weston Laughbaum, Mrs. Oscar Phallen and Mrs. Joseph Korb.

Erosion and rust had damaged the box which recently was removed from the church which was destroyed by fire on Dec. 1. The history found in the box is of the original church built in 1857 and 1858, and of the late church constructed in 1900 and which was destroyed by the December fire.

SHELBY STUDIES ROUTE CHANGE

SHELBY—Mayor Frank Long conferred yesterday with state highway officials concerning the proposed re-routing of State Route 61 through Shelby on Gamble street.

City Council had requested Mayor Long to inquire into the proposed change, which would place the highway further east to connect with North Broadway and with State Route 39 on Mansfield avenue. It then would curve back to join the present Route 61 south of the city.

The proposal has been made to relieve congestion caused by heavy truck traffic through the downtown section.

About three-quarters of a mile of new road would have to be constructed if the change is made. The streets over which the route would run also would need improvement, city officials said.
